

439

Genseric takes Carthage with Vandal fleet

439 AD

↳ once the Vandal besieged Carthage and it fell.

439

1912 Dates J-BK

Vandals conquered Carthage.

439

Vandals under GAISEIC capture Carthage

439

Carthage fell to the Vandals 439

439-533

Carthage was Capital of the Vandals.

439

VANDALS under GAISERIC (c 390 → 477)
captured Carthage, Africa

During the first decades of the Teutoburgian Kingdom, the Catholic episcopacy was by no means considered an enemy of the Goths. In 439 a Catholic bishop tried to intervene on behalf of the federates who were under severe pressure from the Romans.

LITORIVUS stood before the walls of Toulouse. Theoderic now resorted to negotiations and even called Catholic bishops to help. Now it was a question of survival, LITORIVUS, however, declined to negotiate and continued fighting. Despite some significant initial successes he was unexpectedly captured by the hard-pressed Goths, thus, losing the battle and soon after his life.

Libri nro 2 pag 2

439

A report from 439 said that a certain VETERICUS - VI DEIC remained loyal to the Romans and distinguished himself through his military abilities. This both was probably an AMAL.

ARITUS, who had become praetorian prefect of Gaul in 439 and who had already proved himself in a diplomatic mission to THEODERIC once again negotiated peace

439-533

Carthage was the capital of the Vandals.

439

Vandals, under GENSERIC, from Kingdom of Africa, take Carthage and plunder Italy.

439AD

CODEX THEODOSIANUS

summary of Roman Law

439

Capture of Carthage by the Vandals, the West completely overrun by barbarians, piracy rife in western Mediterranean; the imperial administration in the East begins to use Greek.